CLUE #2

It's the real McCoy under that modern exterior.
 It took a lot of Legg work to build.
 Experts were called in to avoid yelling "Timber."
Sunny or not, many walks of life have found shelter within.

Name this place.

Bonus: What was no longer permitted in the original structure in 1964 & why?
 (Note: The answer is at the site!)

CLUE #3

The UA resident who designed OSU's Shoe
Was the architect of this UA building, too.

Newcomers are greeted by an animal from the barnyard
Not the typical dalmatian, but proudly standing guard

Give the figure in the third story window a wave
For the people inside are known to be brave

They quickly leave this place when they get a call
Making loud sounds to alert us all

Like Charlie & the Chocolate Factory when Charlie knew he had won
The golden front doors will let you know you are done.

Name this building.

Bonus: Who was the architect?

CLUE #4

Somewhere in UA is a structure,

More grand than this:

But not quite this:

Built in 1937.

Name the park and the person memorialized by this structure.

*Bonus: How many stones make up this structure?
(Note: You don't have to count, but the answer IS at the site!)*

CLUE #5

Take the number of public pools in UA and multiply by 370.

Divide this result by the first three digits of Hastings Middle School's street address number.

Add to this the year the UACA was born.

Add 1.

Divide the result by the number of elementary schools in the UA Schools system.

Subtract from that result the number of private schools here in UA.

427 = Westover Park

385 = Fancyburg Park

564 = Burbank Park

298 = Cardiff Woods Park

Find the mathematical answer and name the corresponding place.

Bonus: UA's Parks & Rec department celebrated a special milestone last May. What was it?

CLUE #10

With tall, leafy trees and brush overgrown,
Where magical Fairies are known to call home,

This scenic location has a quite common name,
But for one week each year it just isn't the same.

Each fall, the Old Man with his axe and the Beast
Will haunt this location alongside a creek

Families will visit and scream with delight
As the witches and Mongo deliver a good fright.

Name this location and the event that happens here.
